NEWS RELEASE For Immediate Release

ITEEA's Foundation Announces Name Change

RESTON, VA., NOVEMBER 16, 2010 – The Foundation for Technology Education's (FTE) Board of Trustees has changed the name of their entity to the Foundation for Technology and Engineering Educators (FTEE). This change is in keeping with the recent name change of the parent association to include engineering.

FTEE will continue the work of the Foundation to provide experiences and support to enhance the leadership of the technology and engineering educators' profession. The Foundation holds an annual conference breakfast during which a noted speaker addresses "excellence" as a part of the program. Outstanding graduate students from universities within the profession are recognized at this breakfast for their contributions and accomplishments.

The Foundation also supports the 21st Century Fellowship Program that is designed to build leadership for the association and field. The Fellowship program provides experiences that include interaction with leaders in the field, as well as elected representatives and Washington, DC-based education agency personnel.

More information about the Foundation for Technology and Engineering Educators can be found at www.iteea.org/Awards/awards.htm.
